

Accommodation Tips (For reference only)

1. Off Campus Accommodation in Hong Kong

Private Property
Tenancy period is usually two years. Apart from monthly rentals, tenants are normally expected to pay for utilities. No commission would be charged if the property is rented directly from the landlord. A commission which is equal to 50% or 100% of one month's rental would be charged if renting through property agent. Terms and conditions must be checked carefully before renting private property.

Non-governmental Organizations (NGOs)
Some non-governmental organizations (NGOs) in Hong Kong also provide accommodation service. Similar to private housing, a tenant has to enter into a tenancy agreement with the organization for a fixed period of tenancy, normally one year. A tenant may save the commissions paid to the property agents as he / she rents the flat directly from the landlord.

2. Related Expenses

Security Deposit	Landlords usually require a security deposit which is equivalent to 2 months' rental. Damages to the flat, furniture, or electric appliances furnished by the landlord will be covered by the security deposit for replacement or repairs. Otherwise, security deposit will be returned to tenants upon proper termination of the lease.
Water Supply	Every domestic household has a water meter and is billed for water supply every 4 months. Water charges are about HK$100 per month subject to usage. Water tariffs are divided into four tiers. In the first tier, a free supply of 12 cubic metres is provided for each household every four months. About fresh water for flushing, first 30 cubic metres is free in first tier. Procedures for applying for a water account are available on the Water Supplies Department website: https://www.wsd.gov.hk/en/home/index.html
Electricity	Hong Kong has two electricity power suppliers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Hong Kong Electric Company (https://www.hkelectric.com) provides electricity supply to Hong Kong Island and Lamma Island. Their billing period is one month. CLP Power Hong Kong Limited (https://www.clp.com.hk) provides electricity supply to Kowloon, the New Territories and most of the outlying islands. Their billing period is two months. Every domestic household has an electricity meter and electricity charges are about HK$300 - HK$500 per month subject to usage. Procedures for applying for an electricity account are available on the websites of the suppliers.
Gas	The Hong Kong and China Gas Company Limited (Towngas) is the only town gas supplier in Hong Kong. Every domestic household has a town gas meter and is billed for town gas supply every 2 months. Town gas charges are about HK$300 - HK$500 per month subject to usage. Procedures for applying for a town gas account are available on the Towngas website: https://www.towngas.com/en/Home
Internet	There are several broadband service providers offering plans of different bandwidths for domestic customers. These plans require customers to commit using their services for a certain period of time (e.g. 12 months). Charges might include installation, activation, monthly usage, and etc. Internet service providers: Netvigator: https://www.netvigator.com/eng/index.html Hong Kong Broadband Network: https://www.hkbn.net/personal/home/en/landing HGC Global Communications: https://www.hgcbroadband.com/en/broadband

Notes:

- not all of the above expenses are required to be paid by tenants
- expenses are calculated based on the assumption of two persons sharing a single flat
